

Juvenile Justice Act

The Juvenile Justice (JJ) system is based on principles of promoting, protecting and safeguarding the rights of children. It was enacted by the Indian Parliament in 1986.

In the year 2000, the Act was comprehensively revised based on the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC), which India had ratified in 1992; the Beijing Rules; the United Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of their Liberty; and all other national and international instruments, thereby clearly defining children as persons up to the age of 18 years (Section 2 (k) of the Act defines a 'child' as a person who has not completed eighteen years of age).

The Act is based on the provisions of Indian Constitution and the four broad rights defined by the UN CRC:

- ❖ Right to Survival
- ❖ Right to Protection
- ❖ Right to Development
- ❖ Right to Participation

This Act repealed the earlier Juvenile Justice Act of 1986 and has been further amended in years 2006 and 2011.

The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, is the primary legal framework for juvenile justice in India. The JJ Act primarily focuses on the twin interrelated aspects of juvenile delinquency and handling of children in need of care and protection.

The JJ Amendment Act, 2006, brought substantive changes to the JJ Act, 2000. It has been enacted to provide for care, protection, development and rehabilitation of neglected, delinquent children and includes within its ambit child labourers. Section 2 (d) (ia) includes 'working children' within the purview of a 'child in need of care and protection'.

The Act broadened the scope of rehabilitation of the child in need of care and protection, or of a juvenile in conflict with the law, through not only the institutional but also the non-institutional approach. The Act was revised with 26 amendments and came into force from 22 August 2006.

The Supreme Court of India is monitoring the implementation of this law in SampurnaBehrua versus Union of India. The highlights of the latest affidavit submitted by the Government of India before the Supreme Court {W.P. (CIVIL) No. 473 of 2005} regarding the implementation of this Act are attached in Annexure 1.

The Act provides for punishment and penalties under Section 26. Under the clause 'Exploitation of Juvenile or Child Employee', it is mentioned thus: Whoever ostensibly procures a juvenile or the child for the purpose of any hazardous employment, keeps him in bondage, and withholds his earnings, or uses such earnings for his own purposes, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

ANNEXURE 1

SampurnaBehrua versus Union of India

[W.P. (CIVIL) No. 473 of 2005]

Status Report concerning Implementation and Suggestions for Improvements:

- A large number of abandoned children, missing children and trafficked children pass through Railway Stations. These children are in need of care and protection. In view of this, the respective State Governments/UT Administrations, in consultation with the Railway Authorities, should set up dedicated CWCs/JJBs in major Railway Stations/Junctions.
- Although many States have reported the constitution of Special Juvenile Police Units (SJPU), their functioning remains confined to mere notification (except in Delhi and in other Metropolises). Most of the police force at the District/ Sub-District/ Police Station level are ignorant of the objectives, existence and role of SJPU in protecting children in conflict with law as well as children in need of care and protection. In view of this, the DGPs may be directed to ensure that the lists of SJPU (district-wise) and Child Welfare Officers (CWOs)/Juvenile Welfare Officers (police station-wise) containing the name, address and contact numbers are posted on the website of the State Police and are updated within 02 months thereafter regularly.
- In majority of States, the number of existing Observation Homes are inadequate to cater to the needs of children in conflict with law in following manner: (a) the location of such Homes are quite far for the poor parents/relatives of children belonging to other Districts to visit Homes periodically for inter-facing/interaction with their wards; (b) travelling of long distance by a child in the company of police involves greater risk for abuse; (c) the concerned JJB/CWC, on the basis of whose order such children are sent to an Observation Home/Children Home out of its geographical jurisdiction, has no opportunity to see the conditions in which such children live. In view thereof, the concerned State Government(s)/UT Administration(s) may be directed to set up new observation homes/children homes and/or relocate the existing ones in such a manner so as to ensure the existence of at least one observation home and one children home (for boys and girls separately) at every divisional headquarter covering two/three adjoining Districts (in large States) for the interim care of such children.

- It has come to the notice of NCPCR during the visits of its members to the Homes in various parts of the country that children living therein are deprived of fulltime formal education at par with other children. In fact, many school going children have discontinued their studies after they are lodged in such homes. This situation is not acceptable, especially after the enactment of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009. In view of this, the following directions may be issued by this Court: (a) to ensure that the Superintendent of the Home get the educational status, level of learning/background and educational requirements assessed through the qualified teaching staff available in-house or specially requisitioned for the purpose from the Department of School Education; (b) the bridge courses should be organized by the school education department under SSA Program for the drop-out/older children to prepare them for admission into age-appropriate classes in fulltime formal schools.
